Limited Submission Opportunities
Please disseminate to faculty and research teams

The OVPR is pleased to share two new opportunities on InfoReady, the prestigious Moore Inventor Fellows award and a grant from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania shared by Temple's Harrisburg Campus.

- 1. Moore Inventors Fellows The foundation seeks to identify outstanding inventors and innovators who harness science and technology to enhance the conduct of scientific research, strengthen environmental conservation, or improve the experience and outcomes of patient care. The Moore Inventor Fellows fellowship focuses on supporting scientist-inventors at a critical prototyping stage to capture opportunities that otherwise might be missed. Inventors sought from the following, but not limited to disciplines: environmental science and conservation, remote sensing, artificial intelligence, big data, climatology, emerging infectious diseases, biology, oceanography, engineering, physics, chemistry, materials science, neuroscience, and public health. Each fellow receives a total of $825,000 over three years to drive their invention forward, which includes $50,000 per year from their home institution as a commitment to these outstanding individuals.
